1. BACKGROUND

MISSION

1. Deep Understanding of English Literature: Help students learn a lot about English literature, including different types of writing, time periods, and ways to analyze texts, so they can think deeply about what they read.
2. Advanced Language Skills: Improve students' writing, reading, speaking, and listening abilities to ensure they can communicate well in various settings, whether for work or social interactions.
3. Encourage Critical and Creative Thinking: Inspire students to think in new and original ways, allowing them to explore and share their ideas through different kinds of writing and media.
4. Career Preparation: Get students ready for many different jobs by teaching them important skills like researching, analyzing, solving problems, and being adaptable, along with offering chances for internships and professional growth.
5. Appreciation for Cultural Diversity and Ethics: Teach students to value different cultures and ethical issues through literature and language studies, helping them to develop empathy, global awareness, and responsible citizenship.

ABOUT THE PROGRAM

The Department of English for undergraduates offers an exciting program that helps students discover literature and language. Our courses cover different writing styles, historical periods, and theories, giving students a solid understanding of English literature. Students improve their reading, writing, and analysis skills, preparing them for various careers or further studies. With engaging classes, discussions, and digital tools, we create a learning environment that enhances communication, critical thinking, and creativity, equipping graduates with the skills needed for success.

2. Programme Educational Objectives (PEOs)
